

ABSTRACT

An apparatus for eradicating pests through the use of heat. The apparatus utilizes a chamber, container or contained environment. The chamber can be made from an existing structure or converted from a previously-used container (e.g., a trailer that is pulled by a tractor truck, i.e., an eighteen-wheeler). The apparatus employs heated air, preferably under controlled conditions, to eradicate pests.